Coming Soon to a Browser Near You!

Our MCA website (www.mcademy.com) is getting a major facelift! In addition to a new look with new photos and graphics, there are other new features that you will enjoy. One major change is on the main navigation bar on the home page, where secondary links pop up dynamically on a "mouse over," or when you hover your pointer over the link. This means that you will no longer have to click on each link to find where other links are located. The faculty and staff pages will be updated, and they will be posted with e-mail addresses. On the home page, there will be a "Happenings" box which will list upcoming events at MCA. This will be a scrollable box, and each event will be a link to itself, that when accessed, will give you more information about the event. The updated site will also be searchable, allowing visitors to search within the site for particular information. The site is currently in beta test and will be rolled out into the public world wide web in the very near future. In addition to getting the website updated, MCA will also be getting a new video, which will be accessible from the new website.

The MCA website is used primarily to help new and prospective parents know more about the school. While this is still a major objective of the new website, we believe that the updated site will continue to meet this objective while also offering more information to families that are already enrolled. It will be another tool that MCA uses to further our communication process with our families. Watch for more information about the actual rollout of the updated website to come out soon. The new look and some of the new features are noted below.
